Chris May MS, CISSP, Security Solutions Director presented to our club today. He shared a few cyber security tips with the club. Mr. May is very knowledgeable, and his insight and guidance on how to be safe on the web was appreciated by all. His primary role involves orchestrating cybersecurity initiatives and strategies that safeguard vital information assets. “My collaborative approach entails engaging with C-suite executives and department heads, understanding the unique security landscape of each entity, and crafting tailored strategies. The core of my expertise lies in pinpointing vulnerabilities within existing IT infrastructures and advocating for the adoption of cutting-edge solutions to mitigate risks, all while unlocking new avenues for business growth.”

“My cybersecurity acumen is substantially enriched by my background in diverse high-stakes environments. At DuPont Chemical, I thrived as an Operations Manager, where I honed my skills in navigating the intricacies of large-scale operational ecosystems. This role demanded rigorous adherence to compliance protocols, a skill I’ve carried into my current position to ensure seamless operational continuity aligned with organizational standards and industry regulations. Further back, my service in the US Navy was foundational, offering me an intensive education in Nuclear Engineering and OT/Production cybersecurity while instilling a discipline that has been indispensable throughout my career.”

Mr. May offered to provide a virtual learning opportunity to our club for anyone who is interested in learning more ways to protect yourself online. More info to come. To learn more about the company visit – www.advantage.tech
